

3581 STIEDENROTH, Kira Schmidt. Reviving "a forgotten Sunna:" hijamah (cupping therapy), prophetic medicine, and the re-Islamization of Unani medicine in contemporary India. Contemporary Islam, 13 ii (2019) pp. 183-200. "Officially recognized as an Indigenous System of Medicine in India, Unani has been intimately connected to Muslim culture in South Asia. However, this connection has been downplayed by the government of India, which stressed the secular character of Unani and its Greek origins. Hijamah, or cupping therapy, is considered to be part of the regimental therapies of Unani medicine."

Hacamat
080046

MADDE YAYIMLANDIKTAN
SONRA GELEN JURNAL

01 EYLUL 2022