862 LOVE, Paul M. Ibadis on (and in) the margins: manuscript notes from the Buffalo Agency in early-modern Cairo. Journal of Islamic Manuscripts, 9 ii-iii (2018) pp. 225-241; 381. "From at least the 17th century onward, a sizeable Maghribi Ibadi community lived, studied, and worked in the city of Cairo, centered around a trade agency, school, and library known as the 'Buffalo Agency' (Wikālat al-Jāmūs). Over nearly four centuries, this agency served as a hub for Ibadi intellectual activity and manuscript production." Abstract(s): French & Arabic.

FELIPE, Helena de. The Butr and North African Ibādism: praise and criticism of the Berbers. L'ibadisme dans les sociétés de l'Islam médiéval: modèles et interactions. Éd. Cyrille Aillet. Berlin & Boston: De Gruyter, 2018, (Studies in the History and Culture of the Middle East, 33), pp. 88-110. "This study analyzes Arabic texts about the Berbers from different traditions, taking the Khārijite revolt in North Africa as its reference point. The differences between the texts produced in a Sunnī context and those which make part of the Ibādī textual heritage provide discursive evidence of the tensions within the Islamic world in the wake of those events, and the role of the Berbers as a variable that in some texts converges with the stigma attributed to the Khārijites in the Sunnī world."
